DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they include the following reference character(s) not mentioned in the description: 15. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d), or amendment to the specification to add the reference character(s) in the description in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(b) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.
3. Figures 1 and 2 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). Corrected drawings in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.121(d)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 recites the limitation "said launcher frame" in lines 9 and 13. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

~~Previous elements are referred to as a "launcher apparatus" and "box-like frame".~~

Examiner's Interpretation of Claims

6. The Examiner interprets the preamble of claim 1 as reciting only 1 positive limitation, namely, an apparatus. The remaining recitations (e.g. "for the adaptation of a container", "wherein a box-like frame is provided" and, "where at least one container...is adapted to") merely recite intended use or functional language. If the body of a claim fully and intrinsically sets forth all of the limitations of the claimed invention, and the preamble merely states, for example, the purpose or intended use of the invention, rather than any distinct definition of any of the claimed invention's limitations, then the preamble is not considered a limitation and is of no significance to claim construction. Pitney Bowes, Inc. v. Hewlett-Packard Co., 182 F.3d 1298, 1305, 51 USPQ2d 1161,

1165 (Fed. Cir. 1999). See also Rowe v. Dror, 112 F.3d 473, 478, 42 USPQ2d 1550, 1553 (Fed. Cir. 1997) ("where a patentee defines a structurally complete invention in the claim body and uses the preamble only to state a purpose or intended use for the invention, the preamble is not a claim limitation"). If a prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use as recited in the preamble, then it meets the claim. See, e.g., In re Schreiber, 128 F.3d 1473, 1477, 44 USPQ2d 1429, 1431 (Fed. Cir. 1997) (anticipation rejection affirmed based on Board's factual finding that the reference dispenser (a spout disclosed as useful for purposes such as dispensing oil from an oil can) would be capable of dispensing popcorn in the manner set forth in appellant's claim 1 (a dispensing top for dispensing popcorn in a specified manner)) and cases cited therein. While features of an apparatus may be recited either structurally or functionally, claims directed to an apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than function. >In re Schreiber, 128 F.3d 1473, 1477-78, 44 USPQ2d 1429, 1431-32 (Fed. Cir. 1997). Hence, with respect to the preamble, the prior art merely has to be an apparatus that is capable of being used as claimed.

7. The Examiner interprets the body of claim 1 as positively reciting "at least one adjustment module in the form of an essentially rectangular panel". The remaining recitations are function in nature, and as discussed above, do not serve to distinguish over the prior art. The Examiner need only find an "adjustment module" that is rectangular, flat, and capable of performing or meeting the recited functional limitations.

8. The Examiner interprets claim 2 as positively reciting "an adjustment module" having "at least one suspension device". The remaining recitations recite functional language that the prior art merely has to be capable of performing or meeting.

9. The Examiner interprets claim 3 as positively reciting "an adjustment module" having "securement devices" on an outer side thereof. The remaining recitations recite functional language that the prior art merely has to be capable of performing or meeting.

10. The Examiner interprets claim 4 as positively reciting, "transport hooks" provided on "edge portions" of "at least one adjustment module".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

11. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action: _____

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

12. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5144786 issued to Pacione.

13. With respect to claim 1, Pacione discloses an apparatus (Fig. 1), comprising at least one adjustment module 20 in the form of a generally rectangular panel. The module 20 is capable of adaptation to a container (via tape, glue, rope, etc.) and capable of being disposable on an upperside and underside of said container. The module 20 is also capable of having outer dimensions that correspond to the inner dimensions of a launcher frame (via cutting, breaking, etc.).

14. With respect to claim 2, adjustment module 20 is provided on an outer surface thereof with at least one suspension device 24.

15. With respect to claim 3, adjustment module 20 is provided on an outer side thereof with securement devices 24.

16. With respect to claim claim 4, the edge portion (proximate reference number 22) is provided with transport hooks 24.

17. With respect to claims 2-4, there appears to be thousands of hooks 24, hence any one or more can serve as applicant's suspension device, securement device or transport hook.

Conclusion

18. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The prior art cited on form PTO-892 are cited as of interest to show similar adjustment modules.
